

Live. Life. Outside.

Millboard conditions for use around swimming pools and hot tubs

The purpose of this guide is to explain how to get the best from your Millboard terrace when installed around a pool, and the conditions of Warranty.

In all parts of the world Millboard is used to surround swimming pools and hot tubs in homes, leisure parks, seaside resorts, and hotels.

As with any material surrounding a pool, deposits in the water (from chemicals in the pool water, unintentional spills, suntan lotions, creams etc) can get splashed onto the boards and leave stains, which can be difficult to remove if left to build up over time.

A well-considered pool design, good installation, and a regular cleaning regime will all help to minimise the likelihood of staining and colour damage to the boards.

Millboard should not be installed below the waterline, or on the vertical area just above the waterline where it is constantly wet from wave action.

Ideally you should frame your pool edge with stone, concrete, or tile (you may install a drainage grill), then install your Millboard terrace from this frame.

Where Millboard edgings are used to frame the pool edge, regular maintenance is important, as the pool edge is the area of the deck most subjected to water evaporation and deposit build-up. We also recommend painting the underside of any overhanging Millboard edgings with our Touch-Up Paint; because Millboard is a moulded product the underside of boards/edgings are not coloured. This is purely for aesthetic purposes as the underside of boards may be seen from the waterline. Millboard is non-porous so does not need sealing.

Just as your vehicle needs regular cleaning to remove road traffic particles and other deposits, your Millboard terrace should also be cleaned regularly. We recommend washing the boards with warm soapy water and scrubbing with a stiff brush. Stubborn deposits that have been left to build up on the deck may require a specific cleaning solution (as outlined in our Product Care Guide).

Millboard shall be under no liability in any respect of any defect arising from incorrect installation; wilful damage or abuse; negligence by the buyer or any third party; surface deposits; chemical staining; weathering. For full details please refer to the relevant Millboard Limited Structural Warranty on our website - <https://www.millboard.com/en-gb/limited-structural-warranty-registration>.